O world invisible, we view thee;
O world intangible, we touch thee;
O world unknowable, we know thee;
Inapprehensible, we clutch thee!

Does the fish soar to find the ocean,
The eagle plunge to find the air,
That we ask of the stars in motion,
If they have rumor of these there?

Not where the wheeling systems
Darken,
And our benumbed conceiving
Soars,
The drift of opinions, would we harken,
Beats at our own clay-shuttered doors.

The angels keep their ancient places—
Turn but a stone, and start a wing!
Thy 'tis, 'tis your estranged faces,
That miss the many-splendored thing.

But (when so sad thou canst not sadder)
Cry; and upon thy so sore loss
Shall shine the traffic of Jacob's ladder
Pitched betwixt Heaven and Charing Cross.

Yes, in the night, my Soul, my daughter,
Cry, clinging Heaven by the hem;
And lo, Christ walking on the water,
Not of Genesareth, but Thames!
—The Athenaeum.

PASTIME EUCHRE CLUB ENTERTAINED.

The Pastime Euchre club which is one of the largest in members of any of the card clubs in the city, held a most pleasant meeting yesterday evening with Mrs. J. G. Yniestra as hostess.

Five tables were arranged for the players, who played the games with great zest enjoying to the fullest extent the pleasant evening. The house was prettily arranged with potted plants and out flowers and at the conclusion of the games, delicious refreshments consisting of a fruit salad course followed by ices, were served.

The prizes were very pretty and were fitting souvenirs of the merry evening, which the ladies and their gentlemen guests spent, the pastime euchre club being one of the few card clubs where gentlemen are permitted to play.

Mrs. Yniestra is a very charming hostess and entertained her friends in a most hospitable manner.

The club will meet again in two weeks, a hostess to be decided upon later. Three new members were admitted last night to the Pastime Euchre club, Mr. and Mrs. Lindstrom, and Mrs. A. A. Dooley.

SOCIAL CARD CLUB ENTERTAINED.

Mrs. J. G. Yniestra was hostess yesterday afternoon of the Social Card Club at her home on East Strong street.

There were four tables at progressive euchre, the first prize being won by Mrs. William Boach, who also won the lone hand prize. Mrs. Dan Murphy was awarded the consolation prize, the booby being won by Mrs. J. G. Yniestra. Dainty refreshments were served the guests.

SUMMER VACATION COMING TO AN END.

Reluctantly the summer host has come to the conclusion that the vacation season of 1908 has reached its end, and the resorts which have resounded for three months with the shouts of joy from a myriad of throats have entered upon their period of solitude. In many places, however, the summer visitors are tenaciously clinging to the spots where they have found rest and recreation, and the consequence is that the season will be prolonged for a time. This is notably true of the Jersey shore and the mountains of Pennsylvania and New England, where autumn's joys are no less attractive than those of summer, and where social activities are as brisk as they were in the balmy days and nights of June.

So says a Northern exchange, and from every center is echoed the fact, though the summer visitors at the various resorts are determined that the season shall die hard. Orleanians are scattered all over the Northern and Eastern States and in Canada, but news of many has shown their intention of going to the larger cities.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

LARGE HAT FOR EARLY FALL WEAR.

A very smart French model is here illustrated in the large hat for early fall wear. Elephant gray French felt was used, the large brim tilted up slightly at the left side, and drooping over the hair in the back. A wide draped band of Louise blue velvet ribbon, veiled with brown tulle, hid the crown of the hat, and from this band in front sprang a mass of gossamer feathers.

MRS. SNOWDEN IN AMERICA

BEAUTIFUL ENGLISH SUFFRAGETTE IS VISITING NEW YORK, MINISTER AND WIFE.

By Associated Press.

New York, Sept. 23.—The beautiful young English worker for woman suffrage, Mrs. Philip Snowden, wife of the member of parliament from Blackburn, is in the city the guest of Rev. Dr. Charles Aked of the Fifth Avenue Baptist church, and his wife. It was through Dr. Aked that she first became interested in public questions in England and for the last three years, she has given her time entirely to the suffrage propaganda. In England and Scotland she has made a reputation for eloquence. Mr. Snowden shares his wife's interest in woman suffrage and has made two effective speeches in favor of it in the commons.

Speaking of her work, Mrs. Snowden said: "It is the fundamental question of the times. I do not mean that woman suffrage will accomplish a great deal at once, that the millennium will arrive. Things will go on much as they do at present, but I think it will alter the relation of the sex and all that means—an improvement in women and in the way in which their duties are regarded by men. There is so great a difference between the American and the English point of view in this regard that the latter can hardly be understood here. The idea in England that the woman is the property of the man dies hard and it is shown every day that the absence of political power in women gives men a feeling of contempt for them."

In answer to a question regarding the suffragists' and suffragettes' in England and their relation to each other, Mrs. Snowden said: "They work into each other's hands. One society educates, and the other does the wicked things." This was said with an appreciative smile.

Telephone Talks

No. 15.

A erroneous impression prevails in some quarters that the public, in dealing with a large corporation, is subject to different treatment amounting almost to discourtesy. The first instructions to our employees is courteous treatment of the public. We know the public is paying its money for our service, that we are dependent upon the public for our very existence and this we impress upon our employees constantly. We come into closer personal contact with the public probably than any other public service corporation and in the majority of cases the public is in haste or impatient when using our service. So we observe every precaution to prevent discourtesy or indifference on the part of our employees. Our operators, who are in constant contact with the public, are governed by rules which provide only certain set phrases that may be used by the operator when talking to a subscriber. If the conversation goes beyond these set phrases the subscriber is connected with an employee who receives complaints and adjusts differences.

In the event service is discontinued on a telephone for non-payment, the employee who notifies the subscriber of the proposed discontinuance follows a closely prescribed form in conveying the information. He is prepared, and required, to connect the subscriber with a superior officer if the conversation goes beyond the set limitations. In this way we make an effort to avoid, in advance, all possibility of even apparent indifference and discourtesy. In return we ask that our operators, who are young women, be treated with courtesy and consideration.
